

A Tribute to My Dialysis Team

In the heart of Texas, where kindness blooms,
Three guiding stars light up the rooms.
With a dozen yellow roses, I come to say,
Thank you for brightening each challenging day.

Cindy, the nurse, with hands so skilled,
In your gentle care, my fears are stilled.
With every needle, every smile you share,
You weave a tapestry of comfort and care.

Rachel, the dietitian, with wisdom profound,
You teach me to nourish, to thrive, to astound.
With every meal plan, you help me to see,
The power of choices, the gift of healthy me.

Brandon, the social worker, with a heart so wide,
You're the anchor I trust, the friend by my side.
Through storms of emotions and shadows of doubt,
You help me to navigate, to find my way out.

Together you shine, a remarkable three,
In this journey of healing, you mean the world to me.
So here's to you all, with gratitude true,
These roses are but a small token for you.

May each petal whisper the thanks I can't say,
For the love and the support that brightens my way.
In the heart of Texas, where hope gently grows,
I celebrate y'all with the yellow rose
